Graduation is a special moment in all of our lives, for it signifies the completion of twelve years of schooling and bestows upon us an opportunity to both reflect back upon our many triumphs and accomplishments, as well as a chance for us to think about our futures.

When we first came to Strathcona three years ago, we were adolescents. But now as we are preparing to set out into the world, we will be entering society as young adults. Due to a prevalent atmosphere of uncertainty concerning the future, some of us will proceed straight into the working world and will become contributing members of society. Yet, I know that many of us, the great majority in fact, will enroll in post-secondary institutions, whether they be universities, technical schools or some other form of educational institution, in hopes of fulfilling each of our own set of goals, ambitions and aspirations.

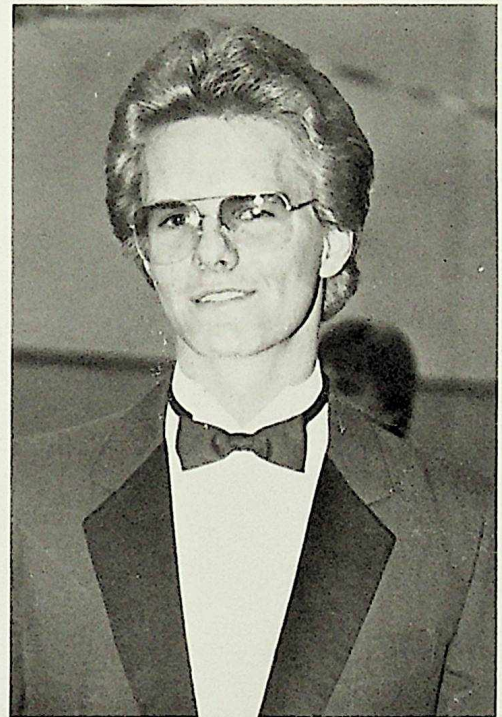

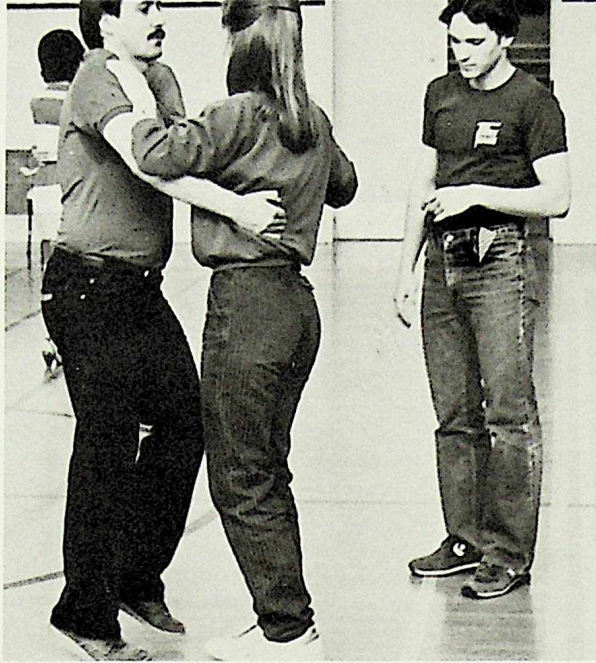

Throughout the course of the past three years at Strathcona, we have received much in the form of educational tools from our many teachers, whom we are all gratefully indebted to. These tools are really quite basic when one thinks of the tremendous amount of specialization in our great "Age of Technology" today.

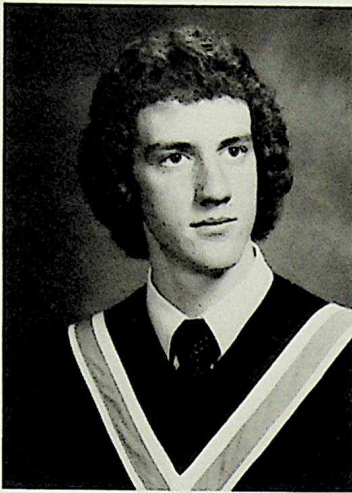

Nevertheless, they provide us with a good foundation of knowledge upon which we can build more knowledge and which will serve very useful in both the working world and in the pursuit of more education in post-secondary institutions.

In addition to receiving an education during the past few years, we have also been greatly influenced by the teachers of Strathcona. Their influence helped to shape and mold each one of us into the individuals we are today. They assisted in finding out what we were best at and offered us encouragement and aid so that we could better ourselves. From this influence came another thing of great relevance. The shaping of our own set of values and moral standards which we will bear with us and use for the rest of our lives. In addition, these values have contributed to the development of our goals and aspirations and to what they might be.

Thirty or forty years ago, when our parents were growing up, the occupation that they undertook was usually one that would presumably last for their entire life. But today, with the massive number of different types of jobs, the majority of us will change forms of employment at least two or three times, and some even more. As well, many of the jobs that we will choose, have not even been invented yet.

Now, as we leave this sheltered form of life in this structural complex called Strathcona Composite High School, we will be forced out into an almost inconceivable new environment, filled with many challenges and opportunities to be met, that I hope we all take advantage of. As we face the inevitable future, let us never ignore nor fail to remember all of the friendships and relationships that we have established here as we all go our own separate ways. And as we embark into the real world and society, remember that one cannot win a war without fighting battles. So as we struggle to attain personal success in each of our own lives, we must not fear adversity, but look upon the opposition that we encounter, merely as important stepping stones, necessary for the fulfillment of our ultimate dreams, goals, ambitions and aspirations.

Several years ago, 1980 to be exact, there came that day in early September when it was time to be back to school.

On registration day we were paraded through a maze of activities in what I now jokingly refer to as Mill Registration. Mill starts off rather innocently with students paying money at designed stops and of course the taking of I.D. pictures. At this point we were let loose into the large gym to try and plan our own time tables. I can remember the scene vividly with students running madly in all directions trying to get their names on the right class list during the right time slot.

As our first week at school unfolded we were informed that there was to be absolutely no hazing. It was obvious that the grade 12's were the last to hear as some of us experienced some rather undignified moments. Yes, grade 10 was definitely a learning experience. There was the excitement of our first night dance with a live band, an opportunity to participate in a lunch hour activity or maybe on a school team. Grade 10 also gave us our first look at several Scona traditions. "Mr. Scona" and "Lack of Talent" are just two from the collection.

Along with these social events Scona students enjoyed much success with the Phys. Ed. and Drama departments. The track and field team cleaned up for the eleventh year in a row and our basketball, football and volleyball teams all experienced fulfilling seasons. The Drama department put on several award winning productions. "1984" and "Hello Out There" are two that come to mind. "Hello Out There" also brought personal awards and scholarships to its actors and actresses.

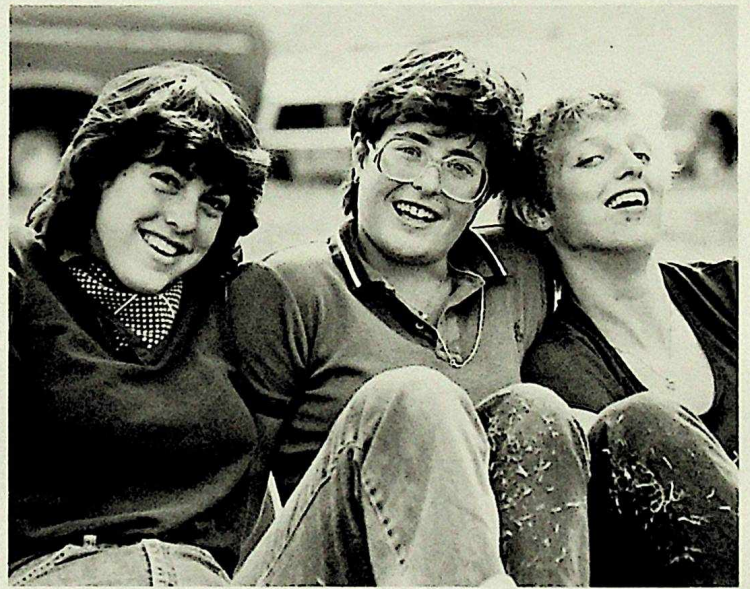

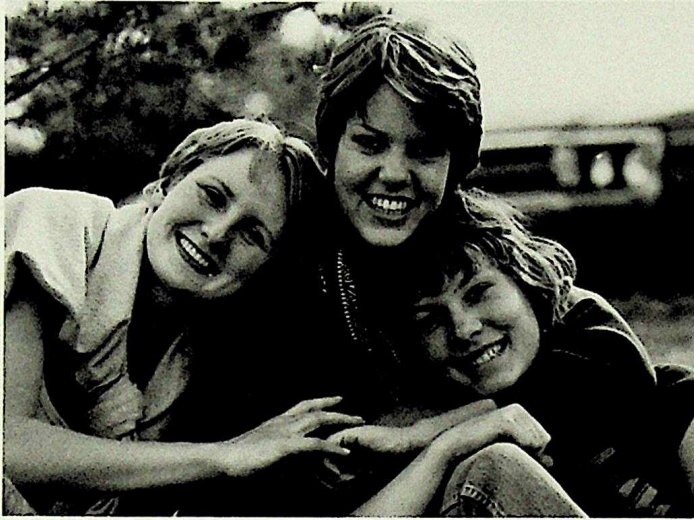

And now, Grade 12 was finally upon us. This was it, our turn to rule the roost, or so we thought. School activities were looked upon under a new light. No more were we afraid of being embarrassed. Dress up days were eagerly awaited, and participated in with reckless abandon. Which reminds me, I'd like to take this opportunity to thank all 10 of you out there, who managed to dress up for that unforgettable Greasers' Day, just two short weeks ago.

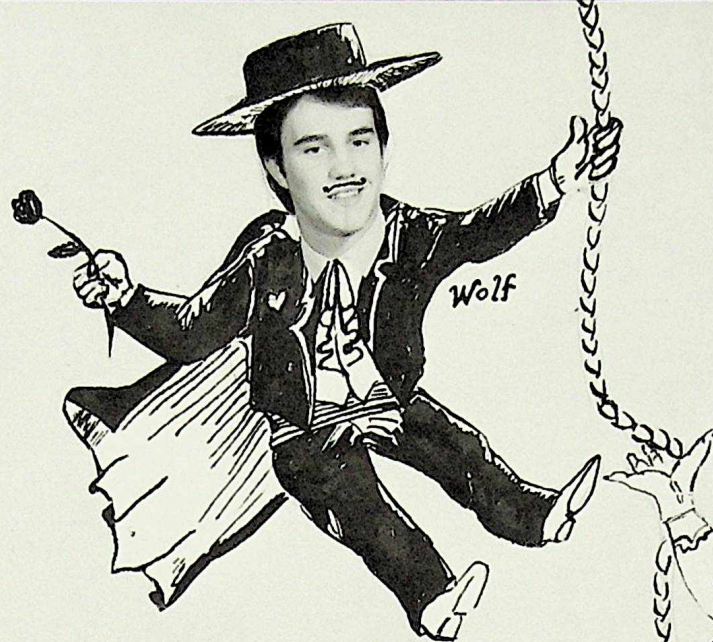

During this year there also crept into our vocabulary a word pronounced "Party". Yes, "Party", a noun. A number of persons united together for a particular purpose. Now, without getting anyone in trouble it must be stated that, as with any pastime, certain members of the graduating class seemed to excel during this type of activity. From this arose the dubious distinction of being "Party King" and "Party Queen". Grade 12 brought an all new "Mr. Scona" contest. The contest which highlights the contestants poise, masculinity, and talent eventually turned into a show to see which man had the greatest flair for wearing women's clothing.

With all this said and done we must also stop and take a look at all of the friends and acquaintances we've made over our stay at Scona. After all, who could forget Mrs. Rows' wonderfulness, Mr. Yeskes' chalk, or the joke telling duo of Mr. Booi and Mr. Golightly.

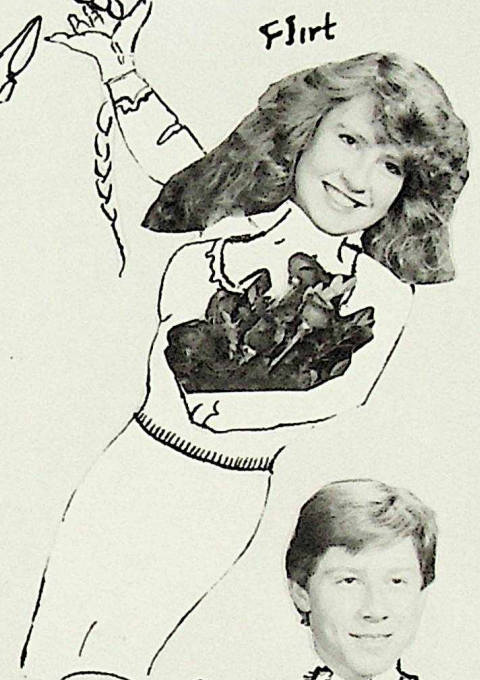

For it is true that after the laughter has stopped and sounds long faded away that we will cherish our friendships the most.

With this I leave you and may the rest of your years be as happy as these last three.

Judo

THE SCONA JUDO CLUB has come a long way since last October; from an idea to a full fledged registered club which meets every Tuesday after school. The members have changed from people who did not know that Judo had kicks or chops to knowledgeable well-trained judokas. In total we have a black belt, a green belt, an orange belt and six yellow belts. Next year our club, headed by German teacher, Sensei Kess, will be looking forward to meeting a new crop of white belts. Look out for the Scona Judo Club next year!

A special thanks to Kay and Brooke, as well as Mr. Matthews for his help, and the other teachers for their tolerance of our activities.

Presidents' Message

Now that the 1982-83 school year is finished, all that's left are the memories.

The year started off with a bang, literally, with the telephone pole along with the school's power lines ripped out of the ground, causing the schools first dance, the Frosh dance, to be cancelled. Ten months and over 1,200 hours of school passed and it was finally over. The end of the year saw final exams, report cards, and a lot of goodbyes including to Mrs. Rowe who left Scona for J.P.

In between, there were scary creatures at Halloween (some not wearing make-up or masks), the Christmas Lit, Tropicana Day, the Lack of Talent Show, and a new Mr. (?) Scona was crowned. Who could forget the high level of enthusiasm at Goof Day and Greaser Day where the number of people who dressed-up could be counted on one hand.

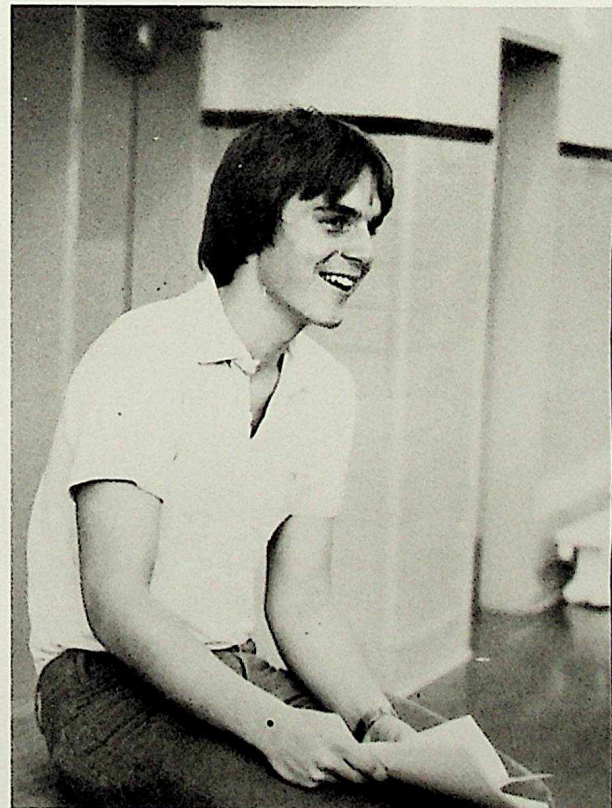

I've really enjoyed being President this year, it was a lot of fun. It involved a lot of time organizing the dances and shows, being yelled at by teachers, and meeting almost everyone in the school at one time or another.

At this time I would like to thank Darlene Schubert, Tracy Brown, and Karen Tjosvold for all their hard work and dedication to the school. I would also like to thank the other members of the council for all their work.

If, in the future, you cannot remember the Student Union activities, at least don't forget the movies and parties, the joking and laughing, the Friends, and all the fun that the High School days are all about.

It's been great knowing you all. Have fun in your lives.

Edmundston - Edmonton Exchange

In April, 36 Scona students and three teachers, flew to Edmundston, New Brunswick to begin the first part of a French exchange sponsored by Open House Canada. Each student lived in the home of their New Brunswick partner. During the weeklong stay they visited the pulp-mill in Edmundston and the papermill across the river in Madawaska, Maine, a furniture factory, a chicken abattoir and a local sucrerie where they sampled typical Brayon food. Two days were spent in Quebec City absorbing the historical and cultural ambiance. Social activities included parties, dances and bowling.

In May Scona welcomed the New Brunswickians with tours of the Legislature, the Provincial Museum, the Art Gallery, the Muttart Conservatory, the Gulf refinery, the Waste Water Plant, the Edmonton Journal and Mrs. Rutland's farm. Everyone went on chartered buses to the mountains wher they hiked down Maligne Canyon, explored the town of Jasper briefly and experienced sun, rain, and snow during the overnight stay at the Black Cat Ranch. Entertainment back in Edmonton included a family pot-luck supper, swimming at the Wave pool, parties, shopping and many small-group excursions.

Communication between group members was much facilitated by the fact that most of the Edmundston group was bilingual although many of the Scona students were competent in French.

En avril, 36 étudiants de Scona avec trois professeurs, out pres l'avion pour Edmundston Nouveau-Brunswick où a commencé la première partie d'un échange linguistique subventionné par Hospitalité Canada. Chaque étudiant avait un jumeau chez qui il demeurait pendant l'échange. Pendant le séjour on a visité les papeterie à Edmundston et à Madawaska en Maine, une fabrique de meubles, un abattoir de poulets, et une sucrerie où on a goûté des mets typiquement Brayons ainsi que du sucre d'érable. On a passé deux jours à Québec, trempé dans l'ambiance histoique et culturelle. Tout le monde o'est amusé à des partys, à danser et à jouer aux quilles.

Au mois de mai Scona a accueilli le groupe du Nouveau-Brunswick: on a fait le tour du parlement, du musée provincial, de la galerie d'art, de la conservatoire Muttart, de la raffinerie Gulf, du Journal et de la ferme de Mme Rutland. Dans deux autobus affrétés on a fait un voyage à la montagne, avec une randonnée dans le canôn Maligne et une courte exploration de la ville de Jasper. Descendu au ranch Black Cat pour la nuit, on a experiencé le soleil, la pluie et la neige des montagnes. En ville il y avait un souper familial, de la natation à la piscine "à vagues", des partys, du shopping et beaucoup de peties excursions.

Puisque le groupe d'Edmundston était presque entièrement bilingue, la communication entre les étudiants n'était par diffiule, bien que les gens de Scona parlent assez bien français pour la plupart.

Scona's Concert Band had a successful year due to the enthusiasm within the Band. Concerts featured a number of ensembles (a Dixieland Ensemble and small Woodwind groups) put together by band members. One of the Band's favorite pieces was a medley of Big Band Jazz played at the Christmas Concert. Including Awards Night, the Band had several performances this year.

BLUEBIRD - by Janet Rae

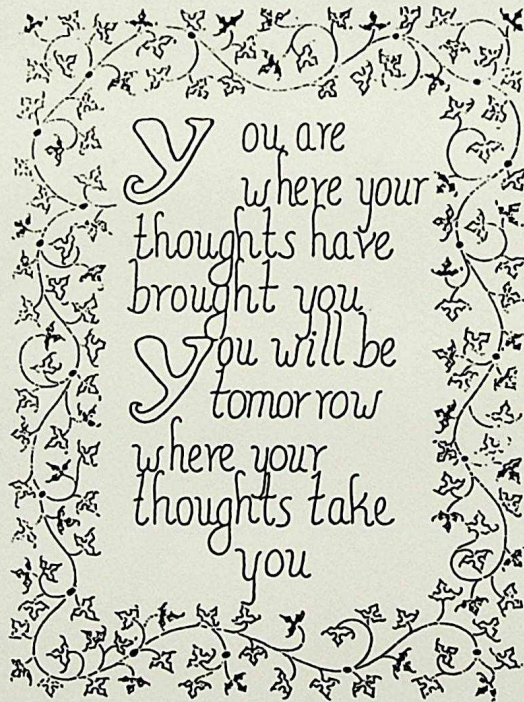

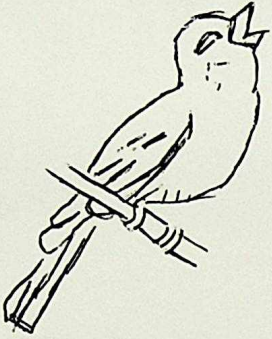

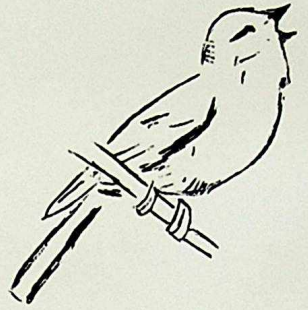

A small feeble bluebird saw I at a glance,
Its wings spread like cupid, its peace like a dove,
The future of Bluebird depended on chance,
Abandoned, alone, no prospect of love.

The meal it had shared; a mere crumb or a seed,
I knew by his feelings that he was betrayed.
Neither hunger nor emptiness tempted his greed,
For him I felt worried, depressed and afraid.

Undecided was I, if to aid or to capture,
He triggered a passion, for I was distressed.
My heart was all with him, my sense was of rapture,
What joy when I grasped him, my mind was at rest.

Away I did flee with my treasure and mood,
Sensitivity, beauty, wardenship did I feel.
Obsessed with my bluebird, I started to brood,
The morsels I offered him had no appeal.

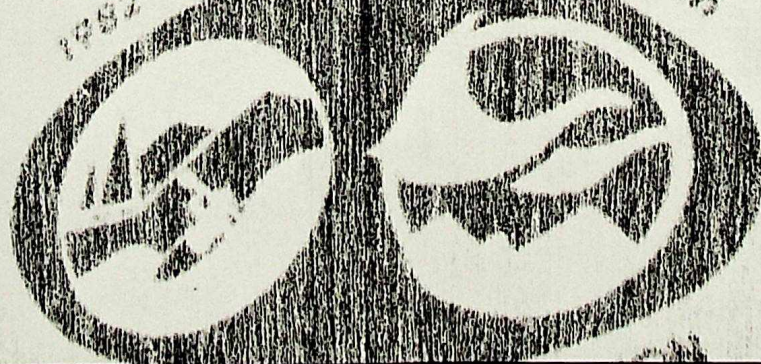

I cared for my bluebird, I showed him respect,
But him in confinement did not want to see,
Alive but in misery not hard to detect,
So I opened the door and let him go free.

Lack of Talent

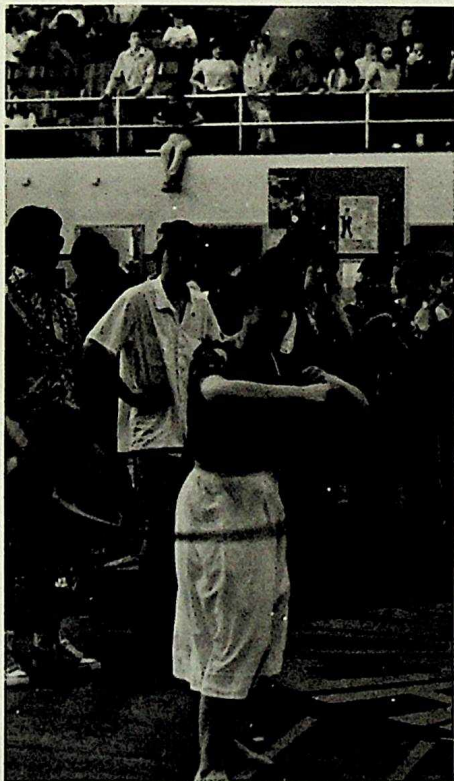

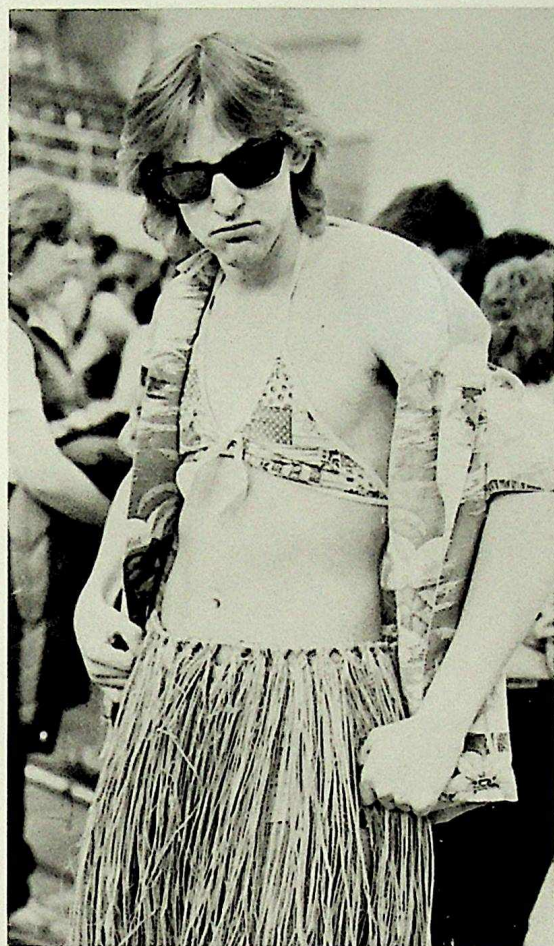

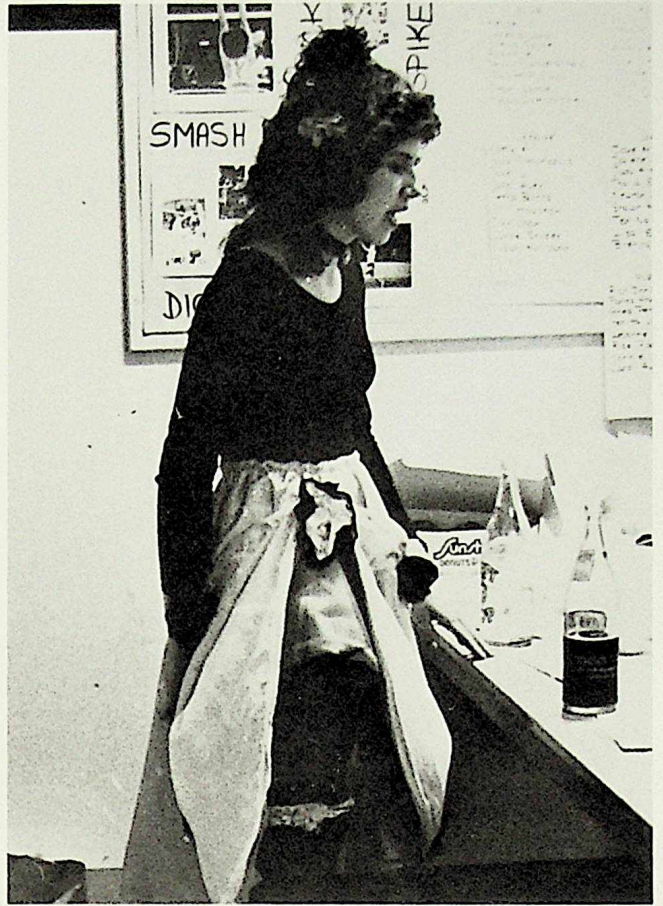

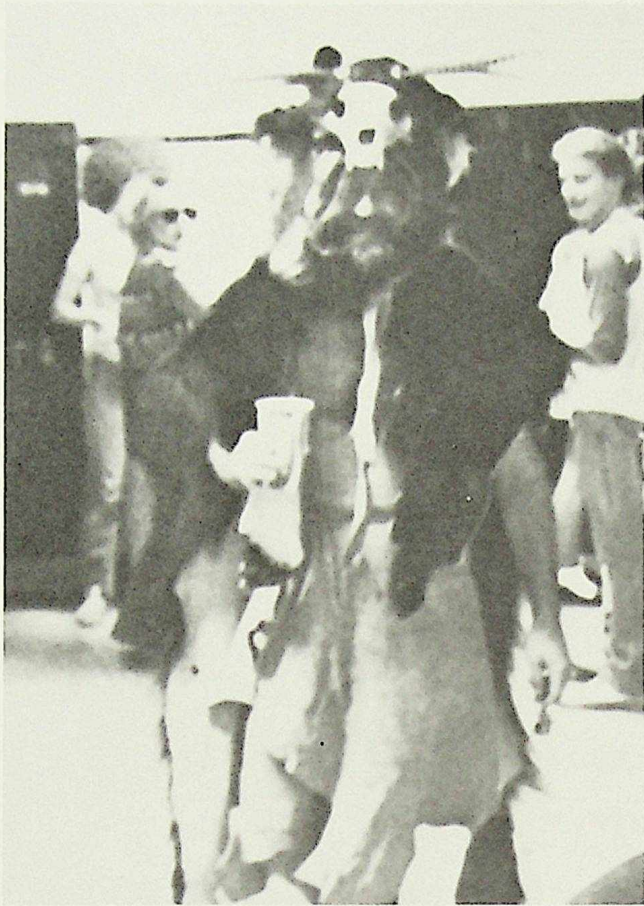

Mr. Scona

This year's Mr. Scona competition featured Scona's best. It saw Lorne Fulford sprawled out on the judge's table, Brian Ross's favorite underwear, and Eric Frederick doing a graceful (!!?) ballet. Eric Frederick claimed victory as he wore the most fashionable clothing and proved to be Scona's "man" of the year.

Principal's Message

Strathcona Composite is a great school with a fine heritage. Our motto "Ut qui Ministrat" (As One Who Serves) is a concept on which many of Scona's students have modelled their lives. One can see it in the efforts of our students, in the calibre of our teams, and in the character of our alumni.

Scona's alumni "came home" October 9, 10, and 11, 1982 for our 75th Anniversary Homecoming Celebrations. These former students have all been moulded in some way by the forces in Scona that continually produce such excellent graduates. Whether these influences and forces have been other students, the staff, the expectations, our heritage, or a combination of all of the above is difficult to determine. But, somehow, year after year, Scona works its magic on its students--young bumptious frosh turn into fine young graduands and grateful alumni. The spirit of Scona lives on and will never fade in the hearts of those who are aware and who care. Those feelings of love, loyalty and pride for this fine old school were very much in evidence during our memorable Homecoming Weekend last fall.

Strathcona is proud of those who have gone from its classrooms. Some of these are well-known citizens here at home and others have done well all over the world. Many of our students served gallantly in World Wars I and II and at least one hundred and sixteen of our students lost their lives--a heavy sacrifice for just one school. Those who have attended Strathcona, past or present, take pride in our school--and they should--for their achievements have given our school the great reputation that it now holds.

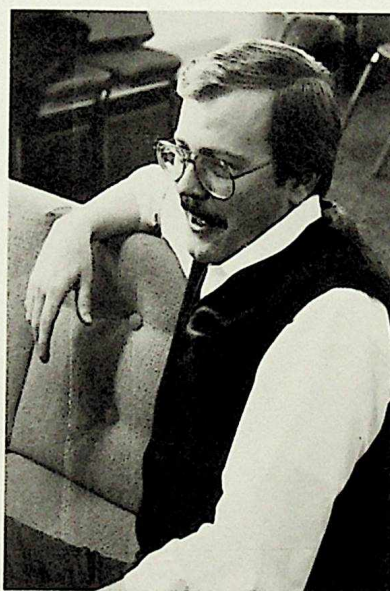

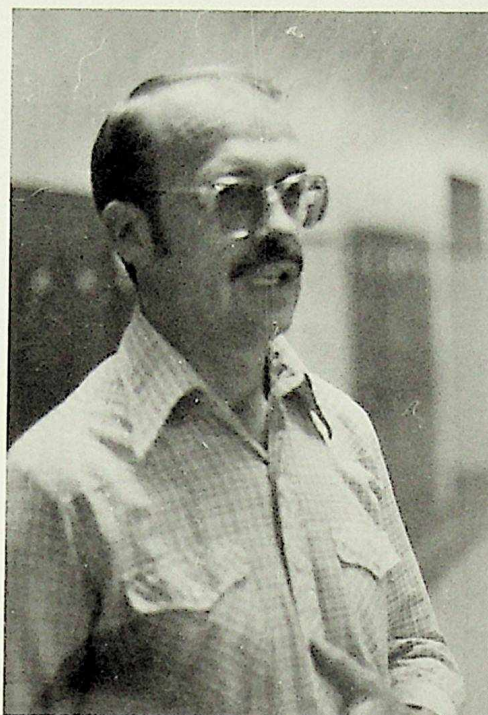

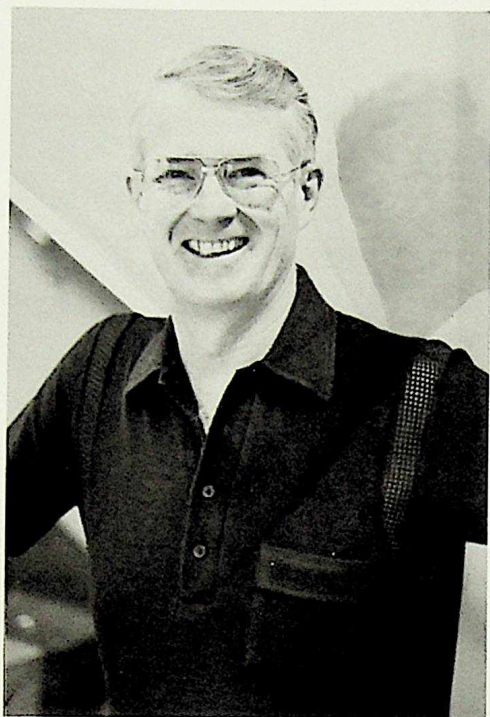

What makes a school great? The answer is in our history, our traditions, our alumni, our students, our staff, our honour, our memories, and our future.

Lee Phipps, Principal
